Wiltwyck Hose Is To Get Pumper, New Ladder Truck

Diners Hear Chief Propose Strict Fire Laws Gives Praise to Volunteers

The present fire fighting equipment in Wiltwyck Hose house on Fair street is to be replaced by a 750-gallon pumper and a 65-foot aerial ladder truck at a cost of $50,000, it was said by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, speaking at the annual banquet of the company held in Roseland restaurant on Washington avenue Tuesday evening.

The chief said it could likely be a year, however, before the new equipment was received. In his brief address the chief said that the past year had been many disastrous fires throughout the country in which many lives were lost.

"Kingston," he said, "has been fortunate in not having any fire in which there was a loss of life. He said that during the past year there had been several fires in the city which might have proved serious if they had not been discovered in time and the fire department called.

"The only safe protection of people," he said, "is in the form of public assembly when a fire breaks out in a building which is equipped with a sprinkler system," said the fire chief.

"In some places in the city," said Chief Murphy, "if a fire occurs we are going to have a serious fire and it will be only through the grace of God that no lives are lost."

Ordinances Needed

Chief Murphy expressed the opinion that what was needed were adequate fire ordinances which were strictly enforced.

In closing he paid a high tribute to the volunteer firemen of the city. "The volunteer system," he said, "is one of the largest assets the city has. We need the services of the volunteer firemen."

The banquet was held following the annual meeting of the fire company at the fire house at which time Mayor William F. Edmonds was received president.

The other officers of the company all re-elected, are Harold F. Edmonds, president; L. E. Dunne, secretary; Eugene Cornwell, treasurer; Alfred May, foreman; George Silverberg, first assistant; Charles A. Ryan, second assistant; Richard Greene, James H. Betts and L. E. Dunne, representatives to Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. L. E. Dunne, delegate to City Fire Fund Association; the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Serley, chaplain; Charles A. Ryan, L. Frank Flanagan and Harry B. Walker, del. gates to State Volunteer Firemen's Association; and Myer Kaplan, Charles J. Mullen and Richard Greene, trustees.

Roads Cleared of Snow

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—All main roads in central New York were reported open by state police today after a blizzard-like snowstorm brought out plows, to battle drifts as a severe cold wave crippled the entire state. Hardest hit by drifting snow was the Sullivan Beach area along the eastern end of Oneida lake.

Talmadge Forces Lose Their Move To Expunge Oath

Atlanta, Jan. 22 (AP)—Herman Talmadge's legislative forces sustained their first defeat in the General Assembly today when they failed to expunge from the Senate Journal the oath M. E. Thompson took as acting governor.

The Senate, by a 27-27 tie vote, thereby ordered the Journal to show that when Thompson took the oath as lieutenant governor last Monday he also swore in a surprise move to uphold the constitution in exercising executive powers of the state.

The Talmadge group was beaten down today only after President Pro Tem William P. Dean of Congress, presiding over the session, ruled that he was entitled to a vote and cast it to allow the disputed oath to stand. Dean then ruled that since a tie vote existed the Journal was adopted as read.

Kingston Loses Pro Cage Franchise

Lack of Interest Here Is Cause for Shift to Yonkers

The Kingston Chief franchise in the American Professional Basketball League has been transferred to Yonkers, the Associated Press reported last night.

In a dispatch from New York, the A.P. disclosed that the team would be known as the Yonkers Chiefs. A. B. "Turk" Karam, Brooklyn Dodger baseball scout, will continue to manage the team.

Turk Loses Interest Too

Harry Edson, director of recreation for Kingston, said this morning that he hadn't received any notification from Karam concerning the future of pro basketball here.

"I've been waiting, and waiting," he told a reporter. "And I have tried to get Turk on the phone, but can't locate him," he added.

Stephan Street Sewer Battle Ends; Has Been On Tap Since 1924; Dismissed in Albany

The long controversy over the legality of an assessment for the construction of the Stephan street sewer back in 1924 has ended. Corporation Counsel Arthur B. Edwig has secured consent for dismissal of an appeal which has been pending in the Court of Appeals and an order dismissing that appeal had been made. Practically all of the special assessments which were laid have been paid under a compromise plan which was worked out by Corporation Counsel Edwig some time ago whereby the property owners paid the face amount of the assessment plus a 14 per cent interest charge, all other penalties being waived.

There is approximately $750 of the special assessment still due on lands which were of the Ulster Realty Company but which it is not anticipated will be paid. The balance of the assessments against the Ulster Realty Company have been paid and what assessments remain unpaid are on lands which the company does not care to retain and these lands will be offered later by the city for sale to pay the special sewer tax now due upon them.

History of the Stephan street sewer case is most unusual.

Construction of the sewer began in 1924 and it was completed before March 26, 1926 when the Common Council was notified of the completion of the work. The city assessor was notified to prepare an assessment roll, 75 per cent of the cost to be borne by the property owners, and 25 per cent by the city at large. The assessment was completed and on May 17, 1926, notice was given that it was open to review until June 1. Later it was approved by the Common Council and also on June 3 by the mayor.

On June 12, a writ of certiorari was granted by Justice G. D. B.

Hasbrouck and the writ was made returnable June 26. No 10th proceeding was had until October 4, 1935 when the writ which has been granted in the name of Justice H. Schoonmaker, and against the Common Council and William B. Martin, the then assessor.

In 1935 Justice Harry E. Schrick signed an order continuing the proceeding in the name of Max L. Reben Realty Corporation.

On January 7, 1938 a motion was made to vacate the Schrick order. In May 1938 Justice Schrick made an order denying the motion to vacate.

Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, official referee, had been appointed referee to hear and determine the matter by order of Justice Schrick in 1935. The matter was heard in May 1939 when G. D. B. Hasbrouck handed down his decision.

Marshall Is Invited to Give Views

Vandenberg Bill Gives Indication Senate Will Cooperate With New Secretary

Praise Is Heard

Bi-Partisan Feeling Is Marshall Has Stopped Politics

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall has been invited to give the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a comprehensive outline of his views on American foreign policy.

But Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) extended the invitation in such a way, it was learned today, as to emphasize the committee's desire to cooperate fully with the new cabinet officer in the conduct of his work.

Marshall was asked to appear at his own convenience and some committee members said it would be all right if he did not find it convenient to testify until after the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting at Moscow. The general assumption is that Marshall will attend the Moscow meeting even though he left the question open temporarily.

He buckled down to his first full day's work at his new desk in the State Department with praise still being heard from both Republican and Democratic members of Congress for his expressed determination to run the nation's foreign affairs on a "non-political" basis.

No Partisan Politics

The statement Marshall issued shortly before he took the oath in President Truman's office yesterday was widely interpreted as not only removing the general from the list of 1948 presidential possibilities but taking foreign policy even further away from partisan politics.

Marshall, whose name often had figured in presidential speculation, said he was not a candidate for any political office and could not be drafted for any such office.

While Washington officials and diplomats generally appeared as interested as members of the foreign relations committee to learn Marshall's views on a wide range of problems, Marshall himself made it clear that he intends to say nothing until he has studied thoroughly the nature of his new task.

No General Indication

He did indicate in general, however, that he regards the policies of former Secretary Byrnes as those of the government and not of individual and that he will continue them.

Among career officials and others in the State Department

Fire Chief Gives Names of Winners In Essay Contest

Prevention Essays Written by 436; Reports Made at Meeting of Volunteers

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, chairman of the essay committee, submitted a report of the winning students at the meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday evening at the Central Fire Station.

The names of the essay winners picked from the 436 essays on the subject of fire prevention, submitted by the school children of the city and county are:

Carolyn Macken of grade 5, School No. 8, $15.

Shirley De Lewis, Plattekill, grade 6, $10.

Nathaniel Dawes, Plattekill, grade 4, $5.

Winners in Grades 7, 8 and 9 were:

Betty Ann Hoffman, Rosendale Union Free School, grade 7, $15.

Madeline Emma Davy, Ellenville High School, grade 9, $10.

Cornelia Perry, St. Joseph's School, grade 8, $5.

Winners in Grades 10, 11 and 12:

Robert H. Brooks, Ellenville High School, grade 12, $25.

Elsie B. Grant, Kingston High School, grade 10, $10.

Eleanor Lichter, Marlborough Central High School, grade 5, $5.

The speakers of the evening were William T. Hookey of Lake Katrine, who spoke on the subject of the rural fire protection program inaugurated by the New York State Grange, and George E. Yerry, Jr., of this city, who urged support of the project to construct the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge.

Secretary Fred C. Harder reported that the 12 veteran firemen of Ulster county now living in the State Firemen's Home in Hildesheim had been remembered with gifts by the association at Christmas.

Three Have Died

Secretary Harder also reported that three members of the association have died since the last meeting. They were William Brown of Korhonskon Edward Brown of Kingston and Police Captain Frederick C. Stoudt.

Hookey Speaks

Mr. Hookey said that the rural

Justice Aldrich, 58, Dies in Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—Raymond E. Aldrich, 58, associate justice of the Appellate Division, 2nd Department, Brooklyn, died here today.

A native of Poughkeepsie, he was elected to the Supreme Court bench in the 9th Judicial District, but during that 14 year term, which would have expired at the end of this year, he was appointed by Governor Thomas E. Dewey in December 1943 to the Appellate Division. The 9th Judicial District comprises Westchester, Dutchess, Rockland, Orange and Putnam counties.

He was graduated from Albany Law School and served his clerkship in Poughkeepsie. He had served as district attorney of Dutchess county and also had been a member of the Poughkeepsie law firm of Aldrich, Morschause and Haas.

Surviving are his widow, Florence A., and two sons, Raymond E. Aldrich, Jr., and Russell Aldrich.

Governor Clinton Directors Chosen; Meeting Protested

New York Lawyer Takes Stand Legal Meeting Necessitates Major Attendance

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation, operators of the Governor Clinton Hotel, was held Tuesday evening at the hotel and, over the protest of some proxy voters, directors were elected.

Protest was made to the holding of the meeting by William Lambert, New York lawyer and hotel man, who contended that since there was not represented a majority of the voting stock at the meeting a legal meeting could not be held.

Mr. Lambert said he was voting shares of stock by proxy which were owned by Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Voss.

N. Jansen Fowler, a director, who presided at the meeting in the absence of Senator Arthur H. Wicks, president, and Peter A. Black, vice-president, ruled that under Section 55 of the Stock Corporation Law of the state the meeting could be held although the by-laws of the corporation prescribes that a majority of the outstanding voting stock must be represented. He held a plurality of the stock present could elect under Section 55.

Directors Are Elected

Proceeding under that theory A. H. Wicks, Peter A. Black, A. Burns, William A. Carl, N. J. Fowler, Dr. L. A. McCambridge, R. R. Gross, J. L. Kincaid and E. Hockenbury were named directors, they receiving from 1292 to 1266 votes each. Copeland Gales and M. Edgar Powley were re-elected inspectors of election.

There being only three of the directors present the directors meeting was not held following the stockholder meeting. That meeting will be held later.

Would Consult Owners

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Lambert stated that he would consult the stock owners, whose stock he had been prepared to vote by proxy and would then determine whether to seek a court order to test the validity of the meeting. He contended that since there was but 889 shares of stock to be voted by those present plus 817 management proxies which had been sent in by stockholders who had designated A. H. Wicks as proxy, that a total of only 1706 shares of voting stock could possibly be ruled as represented. He denied that the proxies which had been granted Mr. Wicks could be voted at the meeting since Mr. Wicks was not present and he held there could be no delegation of voting power by Senator Wicks to another without consent of the stockholders who had originally delegated their voting power to Mr. Wicks by proxy. He held the proxies in the name of Mr. Wicks were void since he was not present to exercise his proxy rights.

Says Wicks Had Authority

Mr. Fowler ruled that the proxies

Police Captain Dies Former Pitcher 49 Years of Age; Joined Police in 1931

Police Captain Frederick C. Stoudt, 49, of 609 Abbot street, a former Hudson Valley baseball star and member of the Kingston Police Department since 1931, died in this city Tuesday afternoon.

In declining health for the past several months, Mr. Stoudt's condition had become critical in the past few days and his death had been expected by his intimates.

News of Stoudt's death came as a shock to thousands of friends and baseball fans throughout the Hudson Valley, who remembered the police captain as an outstanding pitcher in the late 20s.

Stoudt, a product of the sandlots of South Rondout, went from a highly successful career as a baseball pitcher to an illustrious career with the Kingston Police Department. He did most of the pitching for Kingston in the annual series against the Newburgh police department club.

Was Born in Connolly

Captain Stoudt was born in Connolly on March 24, 1898, the son of the late John and Johanna Dufeld-Stoudt. He received his education in the Connolly public school, St. Peter's School, Ulster Academy and then took a business course at Spencer's Business School.

His first employment was as bookkeeper for John S. Thompson, local meat packer, where he remained until the advent of World War I. Mr. Stoudt enlisted in the U. S. Army in September, 1918 and was assigned to Regimental Headquarters, 7th Field Artillery, Camp Jackson, South Carolina.

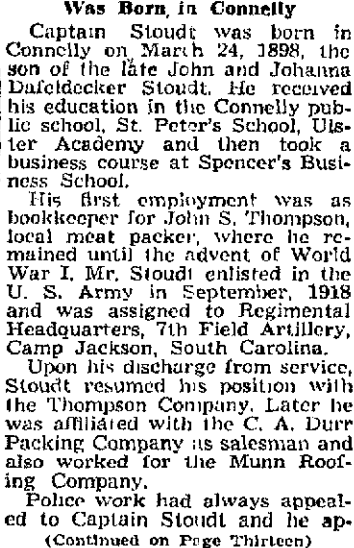

Upon his discharge from service, Stoudt resumed his position with the Thompson Company. Later he was affiliated with the C. A. Durr Packing Company as salesman and also worked for the Munn Roofing Company.

Police work had always appealed to Captain Stoudt and he appeared

TB Seals Returns To Date $20,079, Rochford Reports

The total raised in the 1946 Christmas Seal Sale of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association has been increased by late returns to $20,079.01, Edmund P. Rochford, campaign chairman announced today.

Mr. Rochford said that the late returns indicate that the county response was in line with that in other sections of the country. While the total in the nationwide annual Christmas Seal Sale to raise funds for tuberculosis control has not yet been announced, the chairman said that early reports from the National office indicate that the amount raised here

Lippy and Laraine Are Told They'd Better Heed Law

Hollywood, Jan. 22 (AP)—The Durochers—Lippy Loe and lovely Laraine—were back today from border points, where she obtained a Mexican divorce and they joined in a Texas marriage, but they had a date with an irate California judge who warned they'd better not try living together for the time being.

Their romance reached something of a climax at Municipal Airport last night when the Brooklyn baseball manager and his bride, better known as Actress Laraine Day, disembarked from a transport plane and at least equalled the local honeymoon spirit record in a 20-yard dash to a waiting station wagon.

Off they went, with a photographers' car in close pursuit. At a stop signal, lensmen reported the fiery Loe left his car and started toward their automobile. Midway, the red light winked green, so Loe reversed his field and slid away.

Their destination was undisclosed, but a few hours earlier Durocher had promised Superior

Postal Clerk Held For Embezzlement

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—The arrest of the secretary-treasurer of the New York State Federation of Post Office Clerks on a charge of embezzling approximately $3,350 from the money order division of the Albany postoffice was disclosed today by federal authorities.

Howard W. Head, Albany postal clerk and a postoffice employee since 1935, was arraigned Monday night, a few hours after his arrest, before U. S. Commissioner Charles E. Palmer.

Palmer said the charge placed the date of the alleged embezzlement at about Jan. 3 or 4. Head waived examination and posted $2,500 bond.

In Syracuse, U. S. Attorney Irving Higbee said the case would be presented to the federal grand jury which convenes in Albany Feb. 11.

Navy Has Problem

Cost-Plus Contracts May Find Navy Paying 720 Millions

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—The treasury ruled today that employers who have to pay back wage claims under portal-to-portal shifts may charge the payments off against taxes for the years involved.

Since corporate taxes were considerably higher through 1945 because the excess profits tax was then in effect, the ruling means much higher refunds than would be the case if the deductions were taken from current tax rates.

The excess profits tax imposed a net levy of 35 1/2 per cent of corporate earnings above the 1936-1939 average.

The regular income tax for corporations through 1945 was 40 per cent. Effective with 1946 earnings, corporations pay a regular rate of 35 per cent and no excess profits tax.

The treasury ruling was announced by Secretary Snyder as a Senate judiciary subcommittee continued hearings on legislation to void or limit back pay portal shifts.

Navy Faces Liability

Assistant Secretary of the Navy W. John Kenney told the subcommittee the navy faces a possible $720,000,000 liability for portal pay claims under its wartime cost-plus-fee contracts.

In addition, he said, the possibility of a "substantial" liability arising from another type of contract which has "defied" efforts to estimate. He referred to fixed price contracts with clauses covering increases in labor costs.

Undersecretary of Commerce William Chapman Foster testified that portal pay suits may force many firms out of business even if the full amount claimed is not allowed.

"Most of the suits are filed for a figure far beyond the highest anticipations of recovery by the employees," Foster said, expressing belief that in many cases the courts would find the amount claimed "entirely unreasonable."

War Department officials said yesterday that army cost-plus contracts might entail a loss up to $500,000,000 if back pay claims prove successful.

Will Withhold Taxes

Treasury General Counsel Joseph O'Connell told reporters that employers having to pay portal-to-portal back wages will withhold taxes on these wages at the time they pay them.

Furthermore, he said, employees receiving such payments generally will count them as income in the year in which they are actually received rather than as prior year earnings.

Thus, employees also will get a better break on tax liability since individual income taxes are levied beginning with 1946, with the amount of the reduction varying according to income and circumstances.

Secretary Snyder's ruling was made in response to a request by a company which was not identified.

In further testimony before the Senate subcommittee, Julian O. Conover, secretary of the American Mining Congress, testified that portal suits against mining employers "are wholly unexpected and there is no way in which they could have been reasonably anticipated."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—The position of the treasury January 20: Receipts $150,567,007.42. Expenditures $119,939,361.48. Balance $3,318,426,462.46. Customs receipts for month $29,727,721.36. Receipts fiscal year July 1 $20,146,356,133.27. Expenditures fiscal year $20,585,289,850.50. Excess of expenditures $438,941,766.23. Total debt $259,641,331,663.74. ## Asks Reversal

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton B. Anderson suggested today that the government's promise to support farm prices be revised to avoid a possible outlay of more than $2,000,000,000 and wasteful overproduction. Any changes should be made, he said, only by mutual consent of farmers and the government.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Thank God For Muscle-Rub!

Writes Mr. Robert Jordan, Colon, Mich.

Advices every sufferer from Rheumatic-Arthritic-Sciatic-Nervitis Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments of Muscle-Rub for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip-knee-calf of legs. He said at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him. Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job. No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today at all good drug stores. Remember, Muscle-Rub is old on this money back guarantee. If only half a bottle doesn't bring relief your drug-gist is authorized to return our money.

Necktie Club Is Doing Business in 15 States

New York, Jan. 22.—Former veterans Daniel R. Prosnit and Hubert K. Simon, who remembered the surplus commodity as that hang on every man's tie-rack, especially after Christmas, report their little business venture—the Necktie Club of America—is getting business from 15 states.

For seven of your old ties and a dollar, the ex-G.I.'s will send you seven re-cleaned ties that they got that way from somebody else. They are surprised how easy it is to satisfy the swappers.

"An old Army man sent us three solid black ties such as were worn in the Army before 1942," Simon said yesterday. "We sent them to a North Carolina mortician who requested them in exchange for some gaudy stripes. He was most satisfied."

Jack Loughran and Mrs. Louis Stoketec, co-chairmen for the March of Dimes ball, with Ray Mino and Mrs. William Powers, ticket chairmen, report that tickets are selling well and reservations for tables, for which there is no extra charge, are coming in. The ball will be held at the state armory evening of January 30, and Don Pierson and his G.I. orchestra are planning some novel ideas for the enjoyment of the audience.

Mrs. Roger Baer is in charge of the flowers, assisted by Miss Joan Wood, Mary Ellen Fuller, Barbara Haver, Irene Urbanski and Betty Lemorick.

Several of the young ladies have been victims of polio, but are now in radiant health, for which much of the credit is given to the staff of the Ulster County Chapter, with its provision for nursing care, specially trained physicians and modern methods of treatment—all at the expense of the March of Dimes fund. County Chairman Gaffney sees in the willingness of polio victims and their parents to tell of the sympathy and aid they received once their cases were diagnosed as poliomyelitis, proof of the worthwhileness of the March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Filchok Plans To Go Home to Husband

Washington, Jan. 22.—The Times Herald said today that Mrs. Frank Filchok, wife of the suspended New York Giants football star, and Steve Bagarus, Washington Redskins halfback, have abandoned their plans to be married.

"I am not going to marry Steve Bagarus," the Times Herald quoted Mrs. Filchok as telling a reporter. "I plan to go home to my husband and (two) children."

On Monday the two said they would wed as soon as Mrs. Filchok received a divorce, which she sought in an action filed in Reno, Nev.

"I am an athlete, not a Romeo," Bagarus told a reporter. "I want to get back to football and basketball."

Mrs. Filchok told the Times Herald that she and Bagarus agreed to end their romance last night at a dinner banquet at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria. "I realized suddenly that I have been very foolish," she said. Bagarus and Filchok formerly were Washington teammates. Filchok was traded last year to the Giants and now is under temporary suspension the result of being offered a bribe in a gambler's effort to fix the league's championship football game. The Redskins announced last week that Bagarus, named last week as being traded to the Los Angeles Rams.

Admitted to Sanitarium

New York, Jan. 22.—Lily Pons, Metropolitan opera soprano, was admitted to Le Roy Sanitarium last night for a "general medical checkup," a representative for the singer announced today. She was expected to remain in the sanitarium a week to 10 days. Her husband, Andre Kostelanetz, was scheduled to arrive her today from St. Louis where he conducted the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra Monday night.

Russian May Stay Longer

Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—The U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service disclosed today it had granted a 60-day extension of the transit visa under which Kyriell Alekseev, who termed his native Russia a "hell of dictatorship," is in the United States. The U. S. State Department yesterday said it has rejected a Russian demand that the United States arrest Alekseev and turn him over to Soviet authorities.

Charles D. Carter of 37 Franklin street, who has been in the Kingston Hospital for the past week, seriously ill, is reported slightly improved.

QUINTUPLETS CHEST COLDS MUSTEROLE

With Bellone's new invisible single unit hearing aid, Bellone, the company that sold more single unit hearing aids last year than any other company in the world. Comparative picture above, the difference is amazing. Invisible is the only method of concealing a hearing aid on a man and the best and most expensive for a woman. No button in the ear or near the ear. It conceals the entire hearing aid. Thousands will want to know about this remarkable advance. Write me today for full details. W. G. ## Mrs. Teller Heads Parenthood Drive

Dr. Seeley Is Head of Sponsoring Committee

Mrs. Myron S. Teller has accepted the general chairmanship of Ulster county's participation in the first national campaign of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. The national goal is $2,000,000 and Ulster county's quota is $4,500. Mrs. Teller is well known for her interest in civic affairs. During the war she established a fund for Britain in this community and has taken an active part in Red Cross work. As her husband, Dr. Seeley, has recently been elected president of the newly organized Ulster County Board of Health.

Mrs. Teller announced the following chairmen of her committees: Harold V. Clayton, treasurer;

Mr. Reynolds B. Carr, canvas chairman; Mrs. N. LeVan Haver, special events; Mrs. Lloyd LeFevre, speakers' chairman; Mrs. Louis Kessler, publicity; Mrs. Fred Smith, radio. Serving on the special gifts committee are Allan Hunsstein, A. B. Shufeldt, Stanley J. Matthews and Edward H. Remond.

Dr. Seeley announced that although his sponsoring committee is incomplete, the following citizens of Ulster county are serving on his committee: Pratt Boice, Herbert Thomas N. LeVan Haver, Dr. Fred Holcomb, Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton, Dr. George James, Mrs. Gerard Betts, Mrs. Henry L. Bissby, Edward H. Remond, A. B. Shufeldt, Joseph Honig, Charles De La Veigne, Mrs. Charlotte Tappen and Robert Herzog. Also James L. Hynes, Jr., of Newburgh, John Kingsbury of Woodstock, Mrs. Edward Wilber of Saugerties and Mrs. Harry Peniston of High Falls.

In accepting the chairmanship, Mrs. Teller emphasized the importance in strengthening the American family, the nation's greatest asset. "Here is how planned parenthood strengthens and protects American families," said Mrs. Teller:

1. Better health for mothers
2. Better chances for children.
3. Children for the childless.
4. Fewer mother and baby deaths.
5. Fewer juvenile delinquents.
6. Fewer broken homes.

The national campaign throughout the country will open February 10.

Commuters represented 36 percent of all passengers carried by Class 1 U.S. railroads in 1945.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Grab Bag

Berne, Ind., Jan. 22 (AP)—Book dealer Fred Von Gunten's most profitable mystery today was not bound in printed pages, though it was sheathed in leather. Von Gunten said a customer looking at his stock of billfolds found one with $35 currency in it. Von Gunten was still amazed when the customer chose another wallet.

Blackout

Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 22 (AP)—The Vancouver Housing Authority has declared its tenants can buy coal or sit in the dark. Originally, the war-built housing projects furnished coal for heating. But last year the authority decided tenants should buy their own coal.

Electricity, however, is included in the rent, and the houses have no meters. So many tenants, officials said, simply stopped using coal, bought electric heaters and let them and ovens run constantly. The power load got so heavy three transformers burned out last week. So from now on stations will use smaller fuses, and if tenants use too much electricity they'll be left in darkness.

Unemployment Problem

Twin Falls, Idaho, Jan. 22 (AP)—Twin Falls county's new sheriff, Broda R. Rayburn, closed dozens of beer halls and card rooms in a campaign to "clean up" the city.

Now the bar tenders and card dealers have filed claims for unemployment compensation.

HOME BUREAU

Hurley Home Bureau

The monthly meeting of the Hurley Home Bureau unit will be held Thursday, 10 a. m., at the church. A luncheon, demonstrated by Mrs. George Brown, Jr., foods leader, will be served. All are asked to bring their own table service, an extra tablespoonful of sugar and also ideas for buffet supper decorations. Reservations must be made no later than Wednesday noon, by calling Mrs. George Brown, Jr., 597-M-3, or Mrs. Mawhinney, 329-R-1.

Leaders Receive Recognition
More than 50 leaders and friends of 4-H Club work gathered at the Hurley Reformed Church Thursday evening last, the occasion being the annual recognition dinner for 4-H Club leaders. Good fellowship and good food was enjoyed, the dinner being prepared by members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church and served by members of the Nieuw Dorp 4-H Club of Hurley.

Following the dinner introductions were made, the leaders being introduced as they received certificates recognizing their years of service. Pins provided by the New York Central Railroad were awarded to leaders who had completed five and ten years of service.

The silver clover for five years of leadership was awarded to Mrs. E. R. Bower, leader of two 4-H clubs in Hurley. R. C. O. DuBois, agricultural leader in Gardiner and executive committee member, Franklin Kelder, agricultural leader in Metfield and executive committee member, C. B. Kling, agricultural leader in Mt. Marion.

The gold clover, for ten years of leadership, was awarded to Mrs. George Gillison, leader of the Girls Club in Mt. Marion. J. R. Bower, county 4-H agent, spoke with appreciation of the fine work the leaders were doing in Ulster county. Chairman Pratt Boice of the executive committee also spoke following which Miss Margaret Brundage, the new assistant county 4-H agent, was presented to the group.

A talk by Miss Wilma C. Beyer, 4-H Club specialist from Cornell University, climaxed the evening. Speaking on "Knowing Your 4-H Club members," Miss Beyer showed the need for discovering why children act as they do and the part local leaders can play in helping youngsters grow up.

A.A.F. Members May Join Air Force Association

Residents of local communities who are former members of the army air forces may subscribe to the newly-formed, rapidly growing Air Force Association merely by forwarding $3 to Stewart Field's Information and Education Office, it was announced by Col. Benjamin J. Webster, commanding officer.

"A substantial number of Stewart Fielders, both military and civilian, have already become part of this movement to preserve and foster the spirit of fellowship among former, present and future members of the A.A.F.," Col. Webster said. "In backing the A.A.F. we are pledging ourselves to assist in every way possible in keeping the U. S. Air Force adequate, strong and powerful for the defense of our country," he added.

With General "Jimmy" Doolittle as president the A.A.F. is endorsed by all leading military figures of today. Formed in order to preserve the storehouse of aviation knowledge accomplished by

HOME INTERNATIONALISM

"You could talk about internationalism until you were blue in the face . . . but you couldn't love the world as a vast democratic state until you'd learn't to love your own little bit of ground, your own fields, your own river, your own church tower."

This quotation comes from Hugh Walpole's The Secret City.

"I want every man to be proud of the community in which he lives; I want every man to live that his community may be proud of him."

Thus spoke Abraham Lincoln.

Now that the United States has become a world power, with its eyes more and more on world questions, it's a good thing for Americans to think about their own backyards, and their obligations to them. While charity need not stay at home, it must begin there.

Internationalism and patriotism are mutually exclusive, but American domestic affairs must be right before this country can lead the world. Happiness, prosperity, justice, economic and political strength in these United States mean the same blessings in equal ratio for the world. For whether Americans like it or not, they have taken on world obligations, and these can be adequately discharged only if home affairs are in order.

SPRING IN CATALOGUES

How glorious are the nasturtiums! How tall the spikes of red, white and purple double larkspur! And did anyone ever grow such lima beans or corn that the very sight of them makes one's mouth water? What crisp green spinach and what giant red, gold and orange zinnias. And look at the snapdragons! There must be some of these in the garden next summer.

The winter-time indoor sport of half the country is on. The seed catalogues are coming in every mail. It may be blustering outside, with snow in the wind and ice on the walks. It's summer time under the living room lamp. Gardening has begun.

HER CROWNING GLORY

Women have progressed a long way. No getting around it. They have gained the vote, the right to stand up in street cars, to work in business, in the professions and the trades as hard as men. And now they've freed themselves from slavery—fashion's slavery. They have gone on a strike against the freak hats that the millinery trade—largely man-dominated—has concocted for them. They are going bareheaded to the office, to receptions, to luncheons and to all manner of public functions.

The glamorous Clare Boothe Luce is one of the leaders of the revolt. During her three-day visit in Cleveland at the memorable World Affairs Institute she was hatless all the time. Of course any woman with hair like hers can afford to defy conventions. Her hair is corn-silk, yellow-gold, worn in flat bangs and soft neck-length curls. It would be a shame to cover that with one of the grotesque affairs currently called hats. While few women can boast such tresses most of them would look better—if not quite like Clare—appearing in their own hair than in some of those hats. Maybe, too, they would save money. Husbands ought to back the bareheaded vogue.

FICTION AND LIFE

A report from the American Library Association says that readers are dissatisfied with the fiction available. There is no demand among the general reading public for books about the war. They stand untouched on the shelves while patrons search in vain for books which mirror their own problems, peopled with characters who solve these problems in ways which seem natural and possible.

Many writers believe that in order to picture reality they must dwell on the sordid, cheap, sensational aspects of life. Life does have these aspects in some places and at some times. But the average life is not lived at such levels, being neither sordid nor sub-

ARAB NATIONALISM

Among the numerous errors of statesmanship in the war, and particularly during the peace, has been the cultivation of the Arab League. In a war which was apparently fought to do something or other about the preservation of Western Civilization, often called Christian, the organization of a Moslem power into a force large in manpower, fanatical in its hatred of everything European, of everything that is related either to Judaism or Christianity, seems to make no sense whatsoever. It was an offhand failure, the only excuse for which seems to be that it looked romantic in the news-reels.

From the Hagar (in 622) until the downfall of the Turks in World War I, the Moslem rose to an overwhelming power and gradually faded to insignificance, to be revived by Lawrence of Arabia whose stimulus to Arabian nationalism was a high mark of British war policy. In this war, Franklin D. Roosevelt financed the Arab League through Lend-Lease as part of his policy of balance of power. Throughout these British and American forays runs a pattern of confused thinking, of a total lack of understanding not only of the East but of the import and significance of Western civilization.

The Arab League is a compact among Arab States signed in Cairo on March 22, 1945. This League includes all the Moslem countries such as Egypt, Iraq, Lebanon, Syria, Saudi Arabia, Trans-Jordan, and the smaller states; also Christian Lebanon and the support of Moslem India. Although the Arabs had done not a thing beneficial to the Allies in the war, they were accorded full recognition, provided with Lend-Lease, assisted to develop their oil resources with American oil companies as exploiters. They attended the San Francisco Conference and the United Nations. Since their defeat by Charles Martel at Tours in 732, have the Arabs exercised so magnificent an influence in the Western world.

Were this simply a matter of the Arabs, it would hardly be important. For the Arabs are a divided people, living on a frightfully low standard of life, in a state of miserable feudalism. Such a group ordinarily cannot develop into a modern nation with sufficient force to be a peril to the world. China with a manpower greater than all the Arab states, and with natural resources of a high order, has not been able to develop strength sufficient even to maintain peace within its boundaries because it lacks the organizing power to improve the standard of living, the vitality, the culture of its people. Until Japan was defeated by the United States, it alone among Asiatic states possessed this capacity.

But Arabia is Islam. Its heart is Mecca. Its soul is the Koran and the Prophet. Islam is a religion that believes in conquering adherents by fire and sword. It developed the Holy War as a weapon of conquest and once overran much of Asia, of North Africa and even Europe. It may with our assistance, do precisely that again.

The social differences between Moslems and Christians are so wide that they can hardly be bridged. For instance, in Moslem countries polygamy is normal, the Koran permitting each man to have four wives. The women live sequestered in quarters of their own. In orthodox Arabian countries, women are veiled and have no social intercourse with men except of their own immediate families. This separation of men and women has produced a social system and attitudes toward women which are as alien to the understanding of Western peoples. Christians are abhorred, and Christians, particularly of the older Catholic faiths, are very generally persecuted.

Arab strength is a reaction to European weakness. It is a definite reflex to the apparent breakup of the British Empire. When the British have left Egypt and India—and possibly Palestine—there is no telling what dimensions and characteristics this revived Moslem power will take on. It may sweep every vestige of the Judeo-Christian civilization before it in the Middle East and on the northern shores of the Mediterranean in Africa. And in Europe, it will meet the power of Soviet Russia—as friend or foe, but not as the Defender of the Faith.

THE LIFE SPAN

Although we speak of a man's life as being three-score years and ten we know that the "average" length of life, life span, was only half of 70 less than 50 years ago. Today, thanks to more knowledge of physicians and the public, the average length of life is now nearly the three score and ten, namely about 66.

"Strictly speaking the 'expectation' of life at any age is the prospective average number of years of life remaining to persons of that age." Because of the improvements that have taken place since 1940, and that are likely to continue to take place, boys of the age of 10 in that year actually will, in all probability outlive the age of 57 years as computed on the basis of the death rate of 1940, by several years.

In the Statistical Bulletin, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, 1942, we learn that lives are being saved because this is an age of health progress. Thus, in 1942, there were about 900,000 persons at the age of 65. Out of this total, 300,000 (one-third) owe their existence to the advance of science and the standards of living that have helped lower the death rate since they were born.

While there are notable examples of the saving of life to certain medical discoveries or surgical operations, there are many more whom science has helped by raising the standards of living and by spreading widely the benefits of sound health practice.

What can we expect in the days to come: can this rate of improvement continue?

While this rate of improvement in the length of life span cannot continue indefinitely, the Bulletin states that, as yet, there is still room for improvement.

Application of newly acquired knowledge of health always takes some time and the most recent advances in medicine have not yet had time to spread through the medical profession and then to the public generally.

limb, but somewhere between. The average reader wants books which, without lacking drama, still reflect life as he knows it, and which give him a feeling of kinship with the characters. Someone should make this clear to writers and to publishers.

THE GUY WHO INSISTS ON DRIVING HIS CAR HIGH AND FAST--

—WILL FLY HIS PLANE
LOW AND SLOW!

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Jan. 21--Attorney General Tom Clark has emphatically impugned the administration of Edgar H. Rossbach, the United States attorney in New York, N. J., who last week lost an income tax fraud case against Joe Lay, a notorious crook and a mighty man in the Frank Hague political organization, of which Rossbach is a member.

Clark said this defeat was a "damned outrage" and ordered an investigation of Rossbach's office.

The same office lost a blackmail case in October, 1945, against another blackmailing union racketeer, as evil as Fay himself, after a trial before the same federal judge who heard the Fay case, Thomas F. McNeely, also a Hague man in politics. The defendant in that one was Benjamin Pross, of New York, who operates a local union of the Way, Liquor and Distillery Workers' Union. He is a thief who worked in bankruptcy frauds before he turned to the union racket and had been convicted of three offenses. In the blackmail case it was shown that Pross compelled the Schenley Distillers Corporation to tilt to a New York wholesale liquor firm 10,500 cases of whiskey above its rationed quota by threatening to strike the Schenley plants. His pretext was that 106 employees of a small plant which Schenley had bought and was closing down must have work and that the handling of this liquor would provide employment for them. Actually, 10,500 cases would provide only a trifling spell of employment for only a few men and there was no record showing that more than five workers ever got jobs out of the deal. These five did not appear to be men displaced by the abandonment of the old, small plant and the length of their employment was not clearly shown. Moreover, Pross did not report this deal to his union.

At that time, in the summer of 1943, the liquor industry was rationing whiskey to its dealers and the blackmail market was very active. The treasury showed that this excess allotment went into the blackmail market in the neighborhood of army training camps in Georgia, Texas, Louisiana and other southern states. American soldiers paid as much as $25 a bottle at retail and the excess price, by the case, to the southern wholesale black market dealers ranged from $4 to $17.

Because he was a criminal with an unusually nasty record, Pross was afraid to let the witness stand in the Federal Court in Newark. He may have been hypersensitive in this. Fay, too, has a record, extending back about 25 years, but he took the stand and in his defense before Mr. Rossbach and was treated with admirable courtesy. In fact, Mr. Rossbach conducted his cross-examination from a sitting position and did not embarrass the hoodlum politician with a number of searching questions which might have given a fair jury a very unfavorable impression of him. However, the Pross case was conducted by Charles A. Stanziale, an assistant to Mr. Rossbach, and it is easily possible that he would have gone after Pross much more aggressively. Mr. Stanziale said he prosecuted the black market case with the utmost vigor and could not understand how the jury could acquit Pross and still convict two minor accomplices. It ended well for the accomplices, however, for the august and honorable Judge McNeely set aside their convictions on the ground that when the jury acquitted Pross of the trunk of the conspiracy was cut, I thought it passing strange when I interviewed Mr. Stanziale last fall that he wouldn't let me see the record and said the boss, Mr. Rossbach, might not thank him for discussing the case with me.

Although Brother Pross' local is a New York racket of the A. F. of L., his jurisdiction extends into the Frank Hague territory in New Jersey, where a man able to command liquor in 1000-case lots in black market days and to shake down the industry at will at all times by threats of labor trouble naturally would be a person of standing and high privilege, as statements of the C.I.O. have complained from time to time, union-busting is a highly political racket over there. When the learned Judge McNeely, who now has had the distinguished honor to preside over the acquittal of two of the nastiest parasites on the body of labor, was up for confirmation in the Senate, some of his warmest testimonials came from eminent colleagues of brother Fay representing groups and councils of A. F. of L. unions.

Because the Pross trial was not ogled intently by the press the opportunity was lost to observe whether the jury was chosen with the same simple trust in human nature that permitted Mr. Rossbach to accept on the Fay jury a man who had been a member of Fay's own union, Mr. Stanziale thought he had just picked out the illicit profits in Brother Pross' pocket, and so it seemed from the evidence in review. Moreover, it did appear that if the accomplices were guilty, as the jury thought, then Pross must have been guilty, too, because he was the one who blackmailed Schenley out of the 10,500 cases, most of which were traced positively by identifying data into the black markets. After a lapse of time he bought a voluptuous country estate, but by then he had been cleared of profiteering on our brave lands.

The practice of law, like the practice of medicine, phenology, the practitioner-rummy, surrounds the good faith, challenge and indignation ensues. The lawyer may snort and bawl at a witness or defendant and yet ask the wrong questions, ask questions the wrong way or neglect to ask questions that another lawyer thinks he ought to have. Not often, however, or certainly not as a rule, does a prosecutor waive his historic rights and cross-examine a bottle-scarred old toss-pot such as Fay in the mannerly tones that Rossbach used, and from a sitting position.

Now Mr. Clark is sending a fellow up to Newark to have a look at that barn door, but this is a hell of a time to think of it. (Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Jan. 22, 1927--Death of Mrs. William Gruenwald, wife of the proprietor of the Red Hook bakery. She was a former resident of Kingston.

Miss Lillie C. LeRoy and William C. Boyle married by the Rev. Wilbur F. Slove at the home of the bride on Highland avenue.

New Mohican Market on John street opened.

Captain and Mrs. Zach Roosa celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Grove street.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cornwell tendered a house warming to friends in their new home on Pine street.

Death of Mrs. Samuel L. Drake of Wall street.

Jan. 22, 1937--Death of Miss Esther Blackburn, of 217 Downs street.

William Carter, a popular driver of one of the buses of the Kingston City Transportation Corp., died in his home on Pine Grove avenue.

Mrs. Phoebe A. Slater, widow of John M. Slater, died in her home in Granite, aged 100 years and six months.

Kingston High School defeated Middletown at basketball by a score of 48 to 27.

For years Broadway, the main thoroughfare of Kingston, was a mud puddle whenever there was a heavy rain storm, and it was not until April 2, 1909, that the first definite step was taken to have a permanent pavement laid in the street.

The Common Council that day met and awarded the contract to pave Broadway with brick to the firm of Ring & Foley of Paterson, N. J. The firm had bid $123,416.80 for paving the entire street. Older readers will recall the years of the horse cars on Broadway and later the trolley cars. During the summer months when heavy rains prevailed it was a hazard to alight from a horse car or trolley car without stepping into mud up to the ankle.

Conditions were also bad during the winter months for no efforts were made in the early years of the city's history to clear the snow from the thoroughfare, and when it melted it left the street almost impassable in places.

The other day I ran across an old clipping of April 8, 1909, telling that George J. Schryver, for a number of years manager of the West Shore restaurant, had taken over the management of the Hotel Richman on Railroad avenue from James S. Winne who had been conducting the hotel since the first of that year.

In later years Mr. Schryver became and continues active in the automobile business. If I recall correctly he was the man who organized the first taxi service in Kingston.

Charles M. Preston, one of the city's leading citizens and a former state superintendent of banks, died in his home on East Strand on April 16, 1909, aged 61 years.

Mr. Preston graduated from the Albany Law School in 1871 and came to Kingston to practice law, forming a partnership with Howland and Chipp, one of the city's best known attorneys in the years of not so long ago.

In politics Mr. Preston was an ardent Democrat and he had served the city as corporation counsel from 1877 to 1881. In 1889 he was appointed state superintendent of banks, a post he held until 1896.

Mr. Preston was one of the organizers of the old Colonial City Traction Co., and served as its president. The trolley road was built as a competitor to the old Kingston Consolidated Railroad Co., and when the two roads were finally consolidated Mr. Preston was elected president, and served as such until his death.

He was also active as a member and president of the city's Board of Water Commissioners, and at one time was president of the National Bank of Rondout.

The first of a series of annual minstrel shows at the Y.M.C.A. was held in the building on February 22, 1908, and was highly successful. Secretary William Hoehn of the "Y" was interlocutor.

The end men were W. W. Brundage, Gus Bonesteel, Harold Roy, C. W. Winslow, H. L. Van Deusen and Leslie Elmendorf.

In the circle were Ralph Deyo, Harold Van Gaasbeek, George E. McLane, Albert Van Keulen, William Van Gaasbeek, A. G. Downs, William Risley, Lloyd Regendahl, Tom Dolan, Ben Adams, Harry Pierce and John Winslow, with Samuel D. Scudder at the piano.

The Arion orchestra also played for the minstrels. The members were L. F. Quimby, Edward C. Swart and A. G. Downs.

The members of the male quartet were A. G. Downs, Ralph Deyo, Harold Roy and Harold Van Gaasbeek.

In the olio were Charles Cloonan, slub swinger; W. W. Brundage in a monologue, Harold Roy and George McLane in a duet, Tommy Dolan in solos and clog dancing by Gus Bonesteel.

When Marshall Renounces Political Ambitions, It is to Be Considered That He Has Given Thought to Matter

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 22--When a man of prominence says he doesn't want to be President of the United States, almost everybody familiar with the dodges and evasions of politics thinks it isn't final and that, when sufficiently coaxed or actually drafted, there will surely be acceptance.

But General Marshall has known all along about this type of maneuver, and it may be said that his statement to the effect that he would not be and could not be "drafted" for any political office was no spur-of-the-moment pronouncement.

Some light may be thrown on the matter by an unpublished incident that occurred during the war when a certain military man was being discussed for political office. General Marshall was disturbed by the report because he felt that no man with a high command should even be mentioned in the press as a political factor, especially while the war was being fought. So General Marshall, when he had occasion to visit the general in question, talked the matter over very frankly and reported subsequently that the military commander was not a candidate and had said so. But General Marshall expressed disappointment that some explicit statement forever squelching such rumors and reports was not issued at once because it was such a simple matter to clear up.

Now, in the light of General Marshall's initial statement as secretary of state, the public has learned that there is no suggestion of evasion in the general's make-up. Those who have known him well have felt so all along. The surprise which the public may be getting that there is a man who really doesn't want to be President of the United States and would not accept the presidential nomination directed to him is itself an indication of how much the people have come to read political ambition heretofore into the behavior of high officials, especially cabinet members or members of Congress.

Strangely enough, there will be many people who will be genuinely disappointed over General Marshall's decision, because he is just the kind of man who ought to be president—he is one of the great statesmen of our times. But precisely because he wants to do a job of secretary of state which he could never do if he were politically minded or inclined to seek higher office, he will do better in his post than almost any other selection.

Indeed, if General Marshall succeeds as secretary of state and a Republican administration comes into office in 1949, it would occasion no surprise if the general were kept on in that post.

The most important result of the general's pronouncement is that it immediately surrounds him with a prestige both inside and outside this country which no man in public office, not even President Truman, can command.

It might be asked why the general is so anxious to be non-political in his new assignment. First, he has been an army officer all his life and has learned to keep out of politics, but, second, he knows better than any man in government that the best way to keep faith with the boys who made the supreme sacrifice under his wartime command is to forge an enduring peace. What a challenge to a military man. A chance to develop a peace program at a time of international chaos! Plans for the mission is greater than being President, and becoming involved in the thousand and one squabbles of pressure groups of selfish men.

Secretary of State Marshall has given the nation an example of true modesty and simple determination to render his country the maximum of disinterested service. What a wonderful atmosphere in which to approach the problems of the world at a time when the United States is expected to assume leadership!

Overnight the prestige of Secretary Marshall is such that at any Big Three or Big Four conferences his stature becomes equivalent to that of any of his predecessors. America and the world have gained by reason of a simple piece of self-conduct by a great man. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

Postage stamps will help restore bomb and fire-damaged St. Stephen's Cathedral in Vienna, Austria. The Austrian government issued 12 semi-postal stamps December 12 to raise funds to restore the famous church, wrecked during the battle for liberation of Vienna in April, 1945.

Pictures of the finely-engraved stamps received by Edwin Mueller of New York from the Austrian Postal Administration indicate that the stamps will be especially attractive. The doubles will be available to American collectors soon.

Values, colors and designs of the set are: 3 plus 12 groschen deep brown, statue of Duke Rudolf, who started construction of the cathedral as it now stands in 1359; 5 plus 20 G brown violet, tomb of Emperor Friedrich III, who is buried in the cathedral; 6 plus 24 G dark blue, main pulpit of the cathedral, an example of late Gothic sculpture by Anton Pilgram; 8 plus 32 G deep green, statue of St. Stephen; 10 plus 40 G bright blue, statue of the "Madonna of the Servants."

Others are: 12 plus 48 G deep violet, the cathedral's high altar, built in 1647 by Jacob and Tobias Pock; 30 plus 1 schilling 30 groschen deep red, the cathedral's great organ, built in 1720 by Georg Neuhäuser and destroyed in the 1945 fire; 50 plus 1 schilling 80 groschen greenish blue, self-portrait of Anton Pilgram, which appears below the statue of the martyr; 1 plus 5 schillings purple, the cathedral from the northeast.

Denmark has honored Tycho Brahe (1546-1601), famous Danish astronomer, on the 400th anniversary of his birth by issuing a 20-ore red stamp bearing his portrait, J. and H. Slolow of New York report. Brahe first became interested in astronomy as a result of an eclipse of the sun when he was 14 years old. He conducted his studies in Germany, Denmark and at Prague during his lifetime. He was the first to assign to comets their place in interplanetary space.

Incident Not Closed

We, the parents and Committee of the children on strike from the Chichester-Lanesville area, wish to deny a statement printed in The Kingston Daily Freeman and made to The Freeman by a school official to the effect that the incident was closed and that the children were returning to school. True, the children are returning to school on two conditions, that the road be sanded commencing at the Greene county line in Lanesville and sanded ahead of the school bus each and every morning that weather conditions cause the road to be slippery and in a hazardous condition, and that the fencing of the dangerous places be completed. As of today there is no adequate fence at the Notch Inn hill and curve and no fence at the Neal Hill bridge that will protect the bus from skidding into the stream. These fences that have been installed are very fragile and will be blown away by a wind and can be considered only as a temporary measure of safety. And only when good fences are erected will the children attend school and promises without action will not be tolerated whatsoever.

And, any person, board, or department who may consider this incident closed might do well to consider this incident the same as a snowball starting to roll from the summit of a mountain and continuing down, growing in size and momentum and engulfing everything before it until it reaches its goal at the base of the mountain.

And so be it with this group of patriots who are only asking for a decent and safe highway for their children to ride over on their way to and from school, not one that in winter is so hazardous that the fifty-five children traveling over it by school bus are in danger of losing their lives or being maimed, and in spring and summer and fall is so rough and full of holes that a number of the children become sick if they eat breakfast before riding over this highway on their way to school.

WE ASK THE PUBLIC:

In this too much for us to ask for, after twenty years of promises?

Signed, Mrs. Julia Zilli, Mrs. Alice Craig, Mrs. Margaret Oxtrander, Mrs. Stella Grant and John Papp, the committee.

Governor to Sign Teacher Pay Raise; Passes Assembly*Five G.O.P. Assemblymen Support Democratic Amendment; Brees Gives Views

Albany, Jan. 22 (AP)—Governor Dewey will sign tomorrow the $32,000,000 teacher pay raise bill which was passed unanimously by the legislature but produced dissension in the ranks of the Republican majority.

The assembly approved the administration measure late yesterday and the senate did so Monday night.

Highlights in the controversy that raged over the bill included:

RELIEF! SATISFACTION! GUARANTEED BLACKHEADS - PIMPLES
Use what thousands have tried for promptly relieving externally caused pimples, rash, itch, mildly medicated Cuticura Softens blackheads for easy removal! Satisfaction guaranteed or the maker will refund your money.
CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

1. An attack on the Dewey administration by Assemblyman Oliver M. Brees, Broome county Republican, who said he resented "dictatorial authority or attempts to exert dictatorial authority."

2. Support by five Republican assemblymen of a defeated Democratic amendment to liberalize provisions of the emergency measure.

3. Predictions by legislators of both major parties that the teachers would not strike.

4. Promises by Republican legislative leaders that a permanent salary program would be submitted before the close of the 1947 session.

5. Introduction of a bill which its Republican sponsor said was aimed at breaking "left-wing agitation against our democratic school system."

The temporary pay raise bill allocates $32,000,000 to localities for public school teachers increases for 15 months at $300 to $800 above salaries that prevailed on June 30, 1945, and fixes the minimum annual salary at $2,000.

May Reimburse Selves

School districts will be permitted to reimburse themselves, up to $300, for increases granted to teachers in the last 18 months. Teacher organizations predict most school boards will give the new raises in addition to previous ones.

Assemblyman Brees said he believed that $3,000, which is what most teachers will get, was not enough. He deplored, too, the temporary nature of the legislation and demanded a permanent program providing for higher salary schedules. He asserted the legislature had not been properly informed of the bill's contents. He declared the report of Governor Dewey's special committee on education, which recommended the temporary program, "was released through the papers" and that the assembly Republicans were not consulted about the contents of the bill.

If the Republican party intends to represent the voters," he declared, "it's time its members had a voice in formulating policies." He said he resented "dictatorial authority or attempts to exert dictatorial authority." He urged the lawmakers to "stand up on their hind legs and refuse to be pushed around."

G.O.P. Majority Leader Lee B. Mailler assured the assembly that the governor's special committee would submit before final adjournment a further report recommending a permanent teacher salary schedule and adjustments in the system of state aid for education.

35 Persons Hurt When Stands Fall At Jersey Garden

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 22 (AP)—A portable wooden stand holding 200 persons, collapsed last night at the Jersey City Garden a few minutes after the main event of a boxing card had ended, causing injury to 35 persons.

Only one person was hospitalized. He was identified at the Jersey City Medical Center as Charles Pratt, 43, Kearny. He injured his back. Others hurt were discharged after treatment for shock and bruises.

Police Lieut. John McCormack said the collapse was caused by the fans, along to their feet simultaneously, preparatory to leaving the arena. The sudden combined weight, he said, caused the 10-foot high stand of eight tiers to sag and topple, throwing scores of spectators to the floor.

lice guard until last night when she and her father were stationed across the street from a Sacramento bar in a futile effort to capture her abductor. The kidnaper was expected but failed to appear at the bar to collect the ransom.

The father, John Edward Devine, wealthy Lodi grape grower and vice president of the American Fruit Growers Association, had been told in a note the night before to be at the bar at 8 p. m. last night with $10,000 in $20 and $1,000 bills if he wished to see his daughter again.

Frightened by Stories

After waiting nearly an hour beyond the ransom deadline, police and F.B.I. agents decided the kidnaper had been frightened away by newspaper stories and the girl and her father were returned home in a state highway patrol automobile.

The girl was whisked into the back door of the Devine home just as her mother, Mrs. Margaret Devine, told a group of newspapermen she had heard nothing of her daughter's whereabouts.

Posed as Magazine Writer

Since Saturday the kidnaper had posed here as a feature writer in a nationwide survey of high school life looking for the "typical American girl."

Alice Dean disappeared at 7:30 p. m. Monday after leaving a Lodi photographic studio where she had gone to have her picture taken for the purported features.

Bound, Gagged, Threatened

Lodi Police Chief Millard L. Fore said when the girl left the studio the kidnaper placed her in an automobile, bound and gagged her after threatening her life with a knife and a revolver and drove her to the motel outside Sacramento.

There she was held, trussed on the bed, while the kidnaper stood watch until about noon yesterday, the chief said. When the abductor left, presumably to receive the ransom, Alice Dean effected her escape.

there was much speculation over whether Marshall will undertake an early reorganization of the department.

There also seemed to be a widespread belief that some expression might be forthcoming soon of this government's disapproval of the methods which the Warsaw government won the Polish national elections last Sunday.

Also in the urgent category is the problem of relations with Argentina. This has been intensified by the split between Ambassador George Messersmith and Assistant Secretary Spruille Braden, who is in charge of Latin American affairs.

CONCRETE PAVEMENT

for Low Annual Cost

The strength and stamina of portland cement concrete pavement enables it to give long years of all-weather service under the heaviest traffic. For all but the lighter traffic, concrete pavement usually costs less to build than any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

Although the smooth-riding and all-weather safety of concrete generally attracts the heaviest traffic, records show that annual maintenance costs of concrete pavement are generally lower than for other types of paving.

Low first cost, low maintenance expense and long life mean low annual cost—the reason why concrete is the logical pavement for new principal urban highways and streets.

Ask your city officials to request that concrete, the pavement of long life and low maintenance, be used for state arterial street connections through your city.

AFTER brewing Dobler's for 82 years without a single mishap or accident... after building up a reputation for quality that earned leadership for Dobler's year after year... something suddenly went wrong.

Something suddenly went wrong, and before we knew it some of the below-par lager and ale got away. And did we have a headache getting it back. Then right down the drain it all went... over 5,000 barrels of it... over $100,000.00 worth.

We say we got it back. Well, we got a good deal of it back. But some of YOU got some of IT. We're mighty sorry about that. And we urge you to judge Dobler not by a single mishap, but by Dobler's long record of uniform high quality dating back 82 years.

Yes, we ask you to judge Dobler by the lager and ale we are brewing again today. It's the finest we've ever brewed... actually improved in flavor, and safeguarded as never before by tests and checks and redoubled inspection controls.

Friends, it was the worst headache we ever had. But it's over now, and today we never felt better in our life. How about enjoying a glass of good old Dobler's with us again!

LeFevre Praises Local C. of C. for Securing Lewis

About 200 Reservations
Made—Tickets Will Go to General Public
on Saturday

Congressman Jay LeFevre has sent the Kingston Chamber of Commerce his personal endorsement of Fulton Lewis, Jr., Mutual network commentator, who is scheduled to be the guest speaker at the chamber's annual banquet, Wednesday evening, February 5 at the New York state armory.

The congressman from this district, in a letter expressing his regrets at being unable to be a guest of the committee at the annual dinner, sent his congratulations to the Chamber of Commerce "for being able to have Fulton Lewis, Jr., as your guest speaker."

"Without a doubt, Mr. Lewis is the outstanding Washington commentator, and his broadcasts are followed with a great deal of satisfaction by the great majority of the members of Congress because we know he is reliable," Mr. LeFevre said.

The 39th district representative explained that he probably would be unable to attend the annual banquet of the chamber because "his schedule calls for important work throughout the first week of February."

Governor Thomas E. Dewey, who also was asked to be a guest at the banquet, has written to Louis E. Sickler, chairman of the banquet committee, saying that "the pressure of my work here in Albany during the legislative session will make it impossible for me to come," but the state of New York will be represented at the dinner by Commissioner M. P. Catherwood of the State Department of Commerce.

Donald Marcellus, representing the United States Chamber of Commerce, is expected to be another guest of the committee. Out-of-town invitations also have been sent to the presidents of the Saugerties and Newburgh Chambers of Commerce.

Meanwhile, dinner ticket sales are being reserved all this week for members of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce only. Mr. Sickler said today that approximately 200 reservations have been made, to date. After Saturday of this week, the remaining tickets will be sold to the general public, regardless of chamber membership.

Chinese to Observe Their New Year's Eve

New York Jan. 22 (AP) — Some of New York's Chinese may be too westernized to pay all their debts before midnight tonight, but many of the old customs will be observed as the year 4635—by Chinese reckoning—is welcomed on Pell and Mott streets.

This afternoon's parade will have the traditional smoke-belching dragon and costumed dragonmen.

Although today is a day of fasting, there will be heavy feasting tomorrow. Amid the noise of firecrackers, gongs and drums will be heard the greeting of health and prosperity, "Kung Hsi Tsai."

As a western concession, young people will hold a community dance tonight.

Farm Homes Due for Extensive Face-Lifting

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 22—Within the next few years, farm homes and buildings in New York state are due for some extensive face-lifting, according to L. R. Simons, director of the New York State Extension Service.

Director Simons cited that only about 68 per cent of the farm homes have electricity, 44 per cent have running water, and 32 per cent have central heat and he asserted that rural housing looks like the number one job of the Extension Service in 1947, judging from the many requests for assistance.

Careful planning is essential, he cautioned, for most farm families build or remodel only once in a lifetime and cannot afford to make mistakes. Planning will involve a consideration of the research conducted by the Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics at Cornell, by industry, and the Agricultural Research and Marketing Act of 1946 if Congress appropriates funds under this act.

For farms that maintain year-around hired help, Simons explained that tenant housing is of utmost importance. Good facilities will attract and keep good labor, thus increasing the efficiency of farm operations.

ESOPUS

Esopus, Jan. 21—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Department will hold their regular meeting at the fire house this evening at 8 o'clock.

The Mothers' Club of School District No. 3 will hold a food sale at Mott's store January 31.

Mrs. Jennie Terpening, who has been ill, is improving.

Dr. Taylor Reviews Health Facilities At College Club

Dr. J. Spottiswood Taylor, as guest speaker at the Kingston College Women's Branch of A. A. U. W. at the First Dutch Reformed Church chapel Tuesday night, gave a comprehensive picture of the health facilities in Kingston and Ulster county. He traced briefly the history of medicine and gave in detail the development of the hospitals and public health work in this area.

Dr. Taylor spoke in favor of obtaining a cancer clinic in Kingston for this area and also the establishment of an area blood bank from which transfusions could be taken so long as a donation of blood was obtained to continue the project.

Mrs. Lloyd LeFever presided at the business meeting during which two new members were accepted: Miss Marion Neumann, B. A. degree from Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis., who is director of rehabilitation at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital; and Mrs. George Dickinson, B. A. degree from University of Tulsa, Okla. Miss Elma Kuhlmann was appointed representative on the Kingston Cancer Committee. Miss Hazel Metcalf was appointed chairman of the social studies committee to replace Miss Gladys Weber who has moved to Utica. Mrs. Vincent Connolly distributed the completed constitutions.

Reports of A.A.U.W. fellowship work was given by Miss Margaret Schuetz and legislative field by Mrs. Dingee.

Hostesses for the evening were Miss Dorothy Brooks, Mrs. John DeWitt and Mrs. John Probert. The next meeting will be February 18 as scheduled.

Lowell Club Meets Tuesday

With Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce
Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, 27 Janet street, was hostess to the Lowell Literary Club Tuesday afternoon. Miss Annadelle Gumbly gave the paper for the day choosing as her topic, "It's An Old New England Custom" from the book of the same name by Edward Valentine Mitchell.

She discussed some of the customs of food and habits in New England. She described the hearty breakfasts of pie, buckwheat cakes, syrup and apples as necessary since the people probably had worked for two hours before breakfast. She also spoke of the custom of eating cheese, speaking of the weather, belief in the almanac and legends of phantom ships. She told of the habit of repeating the names of towns such as Dover and Plymouth.

Following the paper, Mrs. Pierce played as piano solos: "Arabesque No. 1," Debussy; and "Butterfly Etude," Chopin.

The next meeting will be with Miss Flora Davison at 83 Elmendorf street, February 4.

Olympian Club Favors Increase for Teachers

Olympian Club went on record as favoring substantial improvement in teachers' salaries in Kingston, at its regular meeting Monday night at the home of Miss Anne McCullough, 39 Orchard street. The action was taken following the reading of a communication from the teachers' association.

The program included a paper by Miss Clara Ostrander on "Weather Forecasting." She gave a history of the weather bureau from its beginning in 1870 through its reorganization in 1933 to the present. During the war forecasting made phenomenal progress and time will come when weather may reliably be foretold years ahead, she noted.

The next meeting, February 3, will be at the home of Mrs. A. L. Berwin, 27 Furnace street.

80th Birthday

Thomas C. Perry, who for many years served as a district superintendent of schools—in his earlier years holding that position in Ulster county—celebrated his 80th birthday on January 18. In honor of the occasion Mrs. Perry entertained in the afternoon at a surprise party at the Perry home in Catskill. Mr. Perry was the recipient of many gifts during the day, among them a cyclamen plant from the Catskill Rotary Club, of which he formerly was president.

The couple will be at home at 60 Cedar street.

21st Birthday Anniversary

There was a happy gathering at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Thomas Carpino, 79 West O'Reilly street Sunday evening. The occasion was the 21st birthday anniversary of their son, Ralph Thomas Carpino. In addition their little daughter, Marlene Ann Carpino, celebrated her sixth anniversary a day ahead (she was born January 20) and just for good measure the event was in the nature of a "house warming." Mr. and Mrs. Carpino having purchased their present home a couple of months ago. There were many beautiful gifts, including money gifts, and Mr. and Mrs. Carpino were not forgotten, either. A most enjoyable evening was spent, with music and recreation and a buffet luncheon was served at a late hour. Guests, who numbered about 50, relatives and friends, came from Kingston, East Kingston, Saugerties, Poughkeepsie and Philadelphia.

decision in favor of the real estate corporation and against the respondents, the city officials. The City served notice of appeal from that order a judgment on August 22, 1939. At that time Judge John M. Cashin had been appointed. The decision of the City was reversed by the Appellate Division. From that decision an appeal was taken to the Court of Appeals and there the matter has since remained.

Following the transfer of title to the property by Caroline H. Schoonmaker of Camaria, Wyoming, to the Realty Company, it was later transferred to Ulster Realty Company.

Some time ago, Corporation Counsel Ewig commenced a move to conclude the long litigation. The compromise was worked out, payments made and finally came the consent to dismiss the appeal.

Running through the long legal battle are the names of many prominent attorneys, city officials and judges. Among those who were interested in the case at various times was the law firm of Fowler & Connelly, the late Judge James J. Jenkins, Corporation Counsel, John M. Cashin, Matthew V. Cahill, Joseph Forman and Arthur B. Ewig. The litigation was pending through the terms of several mayors, several assessors and was heard at various times by numerous judges including Justice Hays, Justice Schrick and Justice and judges of the Appellate Division and Court of Appeals.

G-M Declares Costs Are Basis of Increase in Prices

Detroit, Jan. 22 (AP)—Price increases in General Motors "luxury" models were described today by company officials as means of meeting cost hikes.

The price boosts affect convertible and station wagon models in the Cadillac, Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac lines. The company said, however, that the increase would be no increase on Chevrolet or any of its "volume" models.

The fact that no price change is being made in Chevrolet, G.M.'s heaviest producer, was interpreted by industry sources as indicating General Motors' acceptance of the implied challenge laid down in the recent reduction of Ford car prices.

Henry Ford II less than a week ago announced decreases ranging from $15 to $50 in a move he described as an attempt to halt spiraling prices and costs.

M. E. Coyle, executive vice president of General Motors, said the increases in station wagons and convertibles were made to "bring the selling prices more nearly in line with costs."

The increase, as announced Tuesday, range from $17 on the Pontiac sedan-coupe $193 on both standard and deluxe models of the Pontiac eight streamliner station wagon.

The lowest Cadillac increase was $25. In the Oldsmobile line, station wagons and convertibles were raised some $38. An increase of approximately $18 in the price differential of Pontiac's six and eight cylinder car, Coyle said, was set to allow a "sufficient spread" between the two models.

Nicholas Dreystadt, general manager of Chevrolet, issued a statement that despite the Ford price reductions, the Chevrolet line was still the lowest priced in its field.

He added that no increase was contemplated on "the 1947 model Chevrolets soon to be introduced."

Personal Note:

Miss Belle Short, 9 East Strand, has returned from Detroit where she has been spending the holidays with her sister, Mrs. R. H. Kuehn.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Schryver of 254 Albany avenue, left Tuesday by the Atlantic Coast Line for Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leifheit of 604 Hickory street, Liverpool, N. Y., announce the birth of a son, Robert Gregory Leifheit, born January 17, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Syracuse. Mr. and Mrs. Leifheit are formerly of Kingston. Mr. Leifheit is employed by the North River Coal Co., Thomas street, this city.

Represents Health Services

Chester W. Barth of Port Ewen has been appointed to represent Associated Hospital Service New York's Blue Cross Plan and its allied United Medical Service in Greene, Ulster and Delaware counties, and the Newburgh area of Orange county, it was announced today by William T. Burke, branch manager of both plans whose offices are at 35 Market street, Poughkeepsie. Among the 260 hospitals affiliated with Associated Hospital Service are the Memorial Hospital, Catskill; Delhi Hospital; Margaretville Hospital; Kingston Hospital; Benedictine Hospital, Kingston; Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville; St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh; and Cornwall Hospital.

Won't Lose License Yet

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—Cancellation by the State Liquor Authority of the liquor license and warehouse permit of the Longchamps restaurant chain was annulled late yesterday by the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court. By a 3-to-2 vote, the court returned the case to the S.L.A. directing it to hear the testimony of the Longchamps claim that it had only followed a "common practice" in serving liquor on credit as part of a meal.

Shredded cabbage cooked in milk combined valuable nutrients in a single dish.

Bandit, Discouraged, Gives Himself Up

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 22 (AP)—

James R. Cruz, 27, was no great shakes at the bandit business, he told an Alameda county judge who yesterday placed him on five years probation.

"I tried to hold up two women. They laughed at me," Cruz explained.

Then, his story went, he hitched a ride with a motorist, who when confronted with a gun promptly drove his automobile into a telephone pole.

Cruz fled and later gave himself up.

Fire Chief Gives Names of Winners In Essay Contest

A fire protection program had been started by the New York State Fire Marshal's office. The program was in charge of Pomona Grange and the subordinate Granges in the county. The program in brief, he said, was to induce farmers to make water holes or ponds where water may be available for fighting fires.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served. The meeting was attended by 200 volunteer firemen from all sections of Ulster county.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, February 18, in Port Ewen as the guests of the Port Ewen Fire Department.

Pierson Convicted Of Raping Chinese Girl in Peiping

Peiping, Jan. 22 (AP)—Marine Cpl. William G. Pierson was convicted by a U. S. Naval Court today of raping a 19 year old Chinese coed but will not learn the penalty for some time.

After announcing its verdict, the seven man court adjourned to deliberate on the sentence. It will not be announced until passed upon by Maj. Gen. Samuel L. Howard, commandant of U. S. Marines in North China. Life imprisonment is the maximum.

Pierson, 23, who had sat stoically through four days of testimony and argument but did not testify, blushed at the verdict. Then his face turned a bright red.

When Lt. Col. Thomas B. Hughes, who headed the court, instructed military police to remove the prisoner, Pierson dashed headlong from the room, mumbling to himself, as guards followed him out.

Shen Chung, Peiping National University student who testified Pierson raped her twice on Christmas Eve, was not in court.

Both the conviction and sentence are subject to review.

The court acquitted Pierson of charges of assault, and of assault on lesser counts to the principal accusation. It dropped two other charges—fornication and misconduct, holding they were inconsistent.

The corporal had pleaded no contest to the fornication charge and innocent to all others, including the rape count on which he was found guilty.

The case created great furor among Chinese university students who three weeks ago staged violent anti-American demonstrations in Shanghai, Nanking, Peiping and elsewhere.

Still to be decided is the case of a second marine—as yet unidentified by marine headquarters—charged with assisting Pierson rape the coed. The date for his hearing has not been announced.

Zoological Society Plans To Expand Activities

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—Conservation activities of the New York Zoological Society will be "enormously expanded" as a result of receiving a gift of $250,000, largest donation the society has received, Fairfield Osborne, president, said last night.

Osborne announced the gift at the society's 51st annual meeting. It will be a share in a trust fund of which Clark Williams, former state superintendent of banks who died December 18, was the life beneficiary. It was established by his aunt, Mrs. Mary Clark Thompson, who before her death in 1933 had been interested in the society's conservation activities.

NOW TEST IS MADE—A piece of soiled fabric is washed with the soap being tested. It is then placed under the Electric Eye which shows, on a sensitive dial, the exact degree of whiteness attained.

The amazing Electric Eye, which detects dirt no human eye can see, is now used to measure the cleansing action of soap.

In countless tests of Soapine against other leading brands, the Electric Eye proved beyond question that fabrics washed with Soapine were really clean every time. Without exception—in every single test—Soapine came out tops!

It is a proven fact that no other soap of any type or at any price can get clothes cleaner than Soapine.

Cuban Bantam Champion Signed to Meet Virgilio Here Tonight

Alfredo Pestro Is Making First Ring Appearance in U.S.

Barone and Jenkins Primed for Main Bout; Morton Hopes to Continue Skein Against Edwards

Tonight's B'nai B'rith boxing card takes on an international flavor, with Alfredo Pestro imported from Cuba to meet Carmine Virgilio, Hudson valley bantamweight champion, in one of the five round matches.

Pestro, who holds the 118-pound title on the island where pugilism is a major sport, is in New York city for Golden Gloves competition. Tonight's bout will be his first in the United States.

Other ring duels sharing the spotlight with the Virgilio-Pestro match are: Tony Barone, Schenectady welterweight vs. Ike Jenkins, New York star.

Eddie Morton, Albany welter vs. Dave Edwards of New York.

Switch for Better
In announcing the switch from Eddie Posey, metropolitan bantam champion, to Alfredo Pestro as Virgilio's opponent, Ben M. Becker, director of bouts for B'nai B'rith remarked: "The island champion is regarded as one of the best scrappers of his weight in the annals. We in Kingston wanted to be the first to show him in the U. S."

George Gahford, manager of Ray Robinson, who prepped Sugar Ray for his Golden Gloves campaign and later piloted him to the welterweight championship of the world said of Pestro: "I've seen him work in the gym. He's the classiest prospect since the days when Robinson was a kid on the way up."

Virgilio, who feels that his knockout of Barney Emberson of Kingston bolsters his claim to the valley championship, will try to pin a defeat on Pestro before he gets a chance at the Golden Gloves finals. Backers of the Poughkeepsie look upon him as one of the best 118-pounders among the country's crop of amateurs and are counting on him to win.

"PAYROLLERS OFF MY BACK!"

It doesn't mean much to most of us when we hear that there are between four million and five million men and women on the public payroll—city, county, state and federal. It begins to mean plenty, however, when we stop and figure out what that estimate means.

If there are fifty-five million of us working, of whom five million are paid by us other fifty million, we are money going right out of our own pockets.

Strike off the naughts and divide and you see that every ten of us, on the average, are supporting one full time government employee.

In California there are about 250,000 federal employees on the payroll, and about 455,000 total public employees. But there are only 410,000 farmers and farm lands in the state! While California leads the nation in construction, there are 265,000 more government employees than construction workers in the state.

And of all the regiments and divisions of California's state, city and county job holders, the federal force tops them by 45,000!

We are reminded of the men who gave this nation its start and who risked their lives when they signed a now famous document which I quote in part:

"He (the King of England) has erected a multitude of new offices and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance."

We who work in private employment not only must pay the salaries of all the public employees—and I do not want to discredit those necessary employees—but we must also pay for their desks and typewriters and automobiles and gasoline and perhaps doctor bills.

In addition, we are carrying our share of the army, navy and marine corps, plus billions it must spend for maintenance and equipment.

Everybody Pays

In addition we must take care of hundreds of thousands of sick or disabled veterans and maintain hospitals for them.

In addition we must pay five billions in interest on a federal loan so big the figures are meaningless to the addled brain of man. There are other expenses, too. President Truman said he could squeeze by on a paltry $37 billion next year. Whereupon the new Congress gave him the silent treatment and began planning to put him on his own budget. Even some of the one-time New Dealers are beginning to admit that if we don't begin slashing the big public debt now, while times are prosperous, business may simply have to close when hard times come, and ask Uncle Sam to take over.

Obviously, that would please the Marxists who have had a hand in our federal budget for too many years.

Where must the ax fall? For a family living beyond its means all these years, living on money borrowed against its sons and grandsons, this is a hard question. But this is a question of importance—of dollars and cents—to every household, every man, woman and child in the country.

Even Franklin D. Roosevelt once said (in a campaign speech in October, 1932, just before he himself became responsible for the budget), "Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors, because they are paid through production. If those taxes are excessive they are reflected in idle factories, in tax-sold farms, and in hordes of hungry people, trampling the streets seeking jobs in vain. Our workers may never see a tax bill, but they pay. They pay in deductions from wages, in increased cost of what they buy or—now—on broad unemployment throughout the land."

"There is not an unemployed man, there is not a struggling farmer, whose interest in this subject is not direct and vital. It comes home to every one of us." But taxes can not be cut till government expenses are cut. I think if Congress asked the average taxpayer where to cut he would say, "Get rid of the drones. I'm sick of paying their rent and feeding them and buying their clothes and sending them to shows. Let them get down here beside me, in private employment, and help me pay off the debt. Take them off my back and let them help me carry the load."

Mr. Lambert contended that since there were outstanding 3355 shares of voting stock, approximately 2,000 shares, need be represented to hold a legal meeting.

Question to holding the meeting was entered on the minutes of the meeting by Mr. Lambert, who stated he was interested only in seeing that the hotel was operated in a profitable manner and during a long session which followed he and others at the meeting offered much constructive criticism as to how additional revenue might be derived from the hotel.

Police Captain Stoudt Is Dead

pled for an appointment to the Kingston Police Department. He passed the examination and was appointed a patrolman on April 1, 1931.

Record Was Outstanding
Stoudt's record as a policeman was outstanding and by April 1, 1938 he had achieved the rank of sergeant. On April 1, 1939, he became a lieutenant and on May 1, 1946, he was promoted to captain, the post he was holding at the time of his death.

Throughout his police career, Captain Stoudt was one of the most active members of the department. He devoted much of his time to the Patrolmen's Association and its varied activities.

Police baseball reached an all time peak under Lieutenant James V. Simpson and Captain Stoudt. The lanky submarine ball artist who had gained early fame throughout the Hudson valley was the star of Lieut. Simpson's squads both as pitcher and hitter. The annual series between Kingston and Newburgh proved extremely lucrative to the Association treasurers of both departments, which furnished many baseball highlights for the fans in both camps.

Captain Stoudt served as secretary of the Kingston Patrolmen's Association for several years and was a key figure in the various affairs conducted by the organization. He was a member of St. Peter's Church and St. Peter's Holy Name Society, Kingston Council No. 275 Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Kingston Post No. 150, American Legion and Twaalfskill Hose Company.

Surviving are a brother, John J. Stoudt, and a sister, Miss Helen M. Stoudt, both of Kingston.

Captain Stoudt was a bachelor. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 9 o'clock from the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street, and at St. Peter's Church at 9:30 where a high Mass of requiem will be offered. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Baseball Rarity

Freddie Stoudt was a baseball rarity—a submarine pitcher who could hit and play first base with equal finesse. At the peak of his career, he ranked with the top pitchers of the mid-Hudson district and earned the immortal distinction of being a member of the original Kingston Colonials organized by Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schrick and the late Louis Brown.

A product of the teeming sandlots of South Rondout and Wilbur, in the days of young baseball stars in the days of the advent of the automobile, Stoudt rose from obscurity to Hudson Valley prominence in a couple of seasons.

Protege of Scherer

If anything, the lean and lanky submarine ball artist could be considered a protege of Eddie Scherer, quick delivery expert whose pitching exploits have become legend in the Wilbur and Rondout district. Scherer, one of the great characters of Kingston baseball history, spotted potentialities in the gangling youngster and embarked him on a pitching career.

He taught Stoudt all the pitching savvy he possessed, except, of course, the freakish and highly controversial "quick delivery," a Scherer trademark, which had long been outlawed by organized baseball, along with the spitball, shine ball, emery ball and other freak deliveries.

Gained Much Attention

Stoudt's sensational pitching with the Wilbur nine over a period of a couple of years gained him citywide attention about the time Harry Schrick, an aggressive hard hitting catcher, and Lou Brown, downtown confectionery store operator, conceived the idea of the original Kingston Colonials.

Stoudt joined that select group of local immortals on the original Colonials and for the next few years he was to compete with such outstanding baseball stars as Bud Culloton, Jack Robins, Bill Schwab, Leo Fitzgerald, Joe "Kid" Moore, Jimmy Morgan, Dick Williams, Matty Decgan and many others.

The South Rondout finger didn't stay with the Colonials very long and soon was hooked up with Tommy Galt's Catskill club and the powerful Hudson nine. In that section he was a teammate of Jimmy Morgan, Carl "Dutch" Glaser and Dick Williams, who quit Kingston after a squabble with the operators of the Colonials.

With Equal Billing

If the name of Dick Williams is still worshipped in Hudson and Catskill, that of Freddie Stoudt rates almost equal billing. In addition to his pitching chores in Hudson, Stoudt played considerable "mountain ball" during the summer before he quit travelling and settled down in Kingston.

Stoudt never achieved full stardom among local fans because it seems that during his peak days he was performing for out of town clubs. He finally returned to the local fold in the late 20s with the new crop of players making up the Kingston All Stars piloted by John McCordie. In that group were young men like Tom Davitt, Jimmy Merritt, Preston Knight, Charlie Lay, Hank Cragan, Jimmy Volker and others. "Kid" Moore and "Dutch" Glaser also were members of McCordie's original club.

Into Virtual Retirement

After serving a few highly successful seasons with the Kingston All Stars and with some Twilight League squads, Stoudt dropped out of the ball picture into virtual retirement.

An assignment with the Kingston Police Department led to Stoudt's pitching comeback in the late 30s. Under Lieutenant James V. Simpson, police baseball interest reached an all-time peak and the annual series with Newburgh created tremendous excitement. The Kingston battery of Stoudt and Len Reluea was responsible for a large share of Kingston's victories. Not only did Stoudt pitch superbly but he was generally the stand-out hitter.

While with the police, Stoudt showed flashes of his old time form in a couple of special exhibitions. One involved members of the old Colonials against the Police nine and was played before a huge throng at the Athletic Field. Stoudt bowed to Bud Culloton in a close game.

Dropped Close Decision

Earlier he had pitched for an all-star team of veterans selected by Jack Robins against younger members of the Kingston All Stars at the old Fair Grounds and dropped a close 4-2 decision. This, mind you, years after he had passed his pitching peak.

A near tragic accident befell the great pitcher several years ago at the Athletic Field. Stoudt was watching a City League game when a vicious line drive off the bat of Jimmy Steigerwald, a powerful pull hitter, struck him on the right temple. The police pitcher was seriously injured and hospitalized for a long time. Many of his friends and intimates have insisted that Stoudt was definitely on the downgrade after that injury.

Stoudt's old teammates were shocked by his untimely death as were the baseball fans of the city. His old mates always insisted that there never was a more graceful flogger than the tall kid from South Rondout. His "low-breaking stuff" made him a hard man to hit and his record was dotted with low-hit and shutout performances. Had he been able to do so, Stoudt probably could have become a powerful hitting first baseman or outfielder.

But from the early days of Eddie Scherer, his heart was set on becoming a good pitcher. He became all of that and a fine sportsman, too.

China Reports on Vessel

Nanking, Jan. 22 (AP)—The Chinese Navy asserted today a French warship had tried to land forces on the Paracel Islands, 150 miles east of the coast of Indo China, but withdrew when the commander of the Chinese garrison threatened to open fire.

Saipan Has Become American Country Club of Pacific Area

By DON WHITEHEAD

Saipan, Jan. 22 (AP)—This green Pacific island, whose bloody acres were strewn with American and Japanese dead two and one-half years ago, is now the country club of the Pacific, with a golf course, hot dog stand and beach installations where marines and doughboys once stormed ashore.

Despite the still appalling signs of the war, Saipan is a show place of the navy's rule of the Pacific islands, and its service personnel is probably as content as any on these far outposts.

Men who fought here probably can never think of Saipan's beaches as beautiful. They still are marred by rusting tanks, the carcasses of assault boats and similar debris of the struggle, but otherwise they resemble a Florida resort.

There are swimming floats, sailboats, bright beach chairs and clubs for officers and enlisted men and their families. Children play in the sand or paddle about in the shallows.

Inshore, the grimest reminders of the cost of invasion are the cemeteries of the Second and Fourth Marine Divisions and the 27th Infantry Division, with their gleaming white crosses outlined against a background of green vegetation.

Lush foliage has hidden many of the scars of war, and creepers twine over the abandoned Quonset huts and skeleton tent frames that once were army camps on the northern part of the island.

The cliffs of Mount Tapotchau, where the Japanese hid in caves and refused to surrender, are still splashed with white gashes where the navy used big guns in an attempt to blast out the enemy.

Along the roads are huge piles of surplus war materials. No one knows the inventory, for officers say there are not enough men available to go through each box and crate and itemize the lot.

The Chinese have bought great quantities of these goods, everything from gas masks to jeeps, trucks and bulldozers, but cannot move them all until transportation is more readily obtainable.

Saipan's native population of 4,000 is rebuilding its destroyed homes, farming greater acreages and learning the American way of doing things.

The American forces stationed here have their own little community, with wives and children and a normal social life.

Probably the busiest man on the island is the native navy censor, who is open a hot dog stand. He cleared $700 last month and reports no signs of business falling off. Even the natives like a mustard-dripping concoction.

Wolf bounties in the United States amounted to more than a million dollars a year by 1914.

Potentate, Staff Will Be Guests At Shriners Ball

The Potentate of Cyprus Temple, Ancient Order of the Mystic Shrine, and his staff of officers, will be the special guests Thursday evening at the annual entertainment and ball of the Kingston Shriners' Association in the municipal auditorium. The ball is being held for the benefit of the Industrial Home.

The Shriners have received word that large delegations of Shriners from the Poughkeepsie Shrine Club will attend, as well as Shriners from Catskill, Saugerties, Newburgh, Hudson and the surrounding territory.

The large auditorium will be brilliantly decorated in the Shriners' colors by Arthur J. Jansen and his committee. Single tickets for the ball have been placed on sale at Penney's store on Wall street, Rowe's shoe store on John street, McBride's drug store on Broadway, G. A. Schneider & Son on Broadway, O'Reilly's on Broadway, Ben Johnson's drug store on the Strand, and at the Masonic Temple on Albany avenue.

Tickets may also be obtained at the box office at the auditorium Thursday evening.

Driscoll Loves No Time
Trenton, N. J., Jan. 22 (AP)—Governor Alfred E. Driscoll plunged today into the task of settling the motion picture legislation program outlined in his inaugural message yesterday. It was highlighted by his call for a constitutional convention, reorganization of state finances and tax structure, better labor-management relations, and improvement in the field of education.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—The rain falls . . .

Under a darkening sky Manhattan's timeless towers turn into menacing titans formless as night-mares. . . . The lights wink on slowly and the night crouches back like a startled cat from the friendly skyscrapers. . . .

The rain falls . . . It shines the dull grey streets and turns the levitation of cities into wet and luminous wonderland. . . . Neon signs throw a mystic glow against the lowmassed clouds like a crimson prelude to the end of the world. . . . An exciting sense of anything-can-happen runs through the town. . . .

The rain falls . . . Home-bound stenographers skitter and squeal across the splashy streets. . . . The subways mass with damp flesh and every neighbor has a woolly smell. . . . Vapor fogs bus windows and the drivers get a tired rasp in their voice as they tell the dripping customers to get out. . . . In the car where there is always supposed to be more room. . . . Some day when the rain is heavy a bus driver will go mad and say, "move up in front please . . . everybody."

The rain falls . . . People in the side street bars who dropped in for a quickie on the way home linger for another. . . . They look out moodily. . . . The moisture stirs the chemistry of unrest in them. . . . They wait for the unknown adventure they never look for when the sun is shining. . . . Service personnel from Europe and the Far East are scheduled to arrive today in the United States on five troopships. Due at New York are the steamer Washington, with 200 war brides from Southampton; the General Sturgis, from Leghorn, Italy, with 2,049 troops; ten Navy personnel, 51 dependents, 22 patients, two Red Cross workers and 26 civilians; and the Wilson Victory, with 1,362 troops from Bremerhaven.

The transport Chilton is due at San Diego from Chinwangtao, China, with 1,161 Marines and ten Navy personnel.

The U. S. Army transport Isticle, with 282 Army personnel, is due at Seattle, Wash.

The transport General Hershey, from Bremerhaven, arrived in New York yesterday with 1,509 troops, six Navy personnel and six civilians.

Major Steel Issues Settled
New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—The Iron Age, usually an authoritative publication for the iron and steel industry, said today that U. S. Steel Corporation and union leaders already have settled major issues in advance of formal negotiations for a new contract. "Barring a most unusual reversal in the current attitude of steel management and labor," the national publication said, "formal negotiations . . . this week will be terminated on a mutually satisfactory basis by the time present contracts expire on February 15."

$250,000 Bail Each For Two Men Held All Right by Court

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—Bail of $250,000 each for Joey Rao and Mike Coppola, held as material witnesses in the fatal election day beating of Joseph Scatereggio, has been held "not excessive" by the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court.

The court unanimously reversed yesterday an order of Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy, reducing the bond to $40,000 for each man.

Garrett Wallace, who set the amount of bail originally, "was properly satisfied that ratelors (Coppola and Rao) had vital information concerning the issue under investigation by the grand jury and that they would not willingly appear and testify or might be prevented from appearing when required," the Appellate Division's ruling said.

Scatereggio was a worker for Republican candidate Frederick V. P. Bryan who was defeated by Vito Marcantonio, Democrat-American Labor party candidate, in the 18th district.
